

Dr. Philip I. Levy

Resident Scholar, American Enterprise Institute, Washington, DC

Philip I. Levy's work in AEI's Program in International Economics ranges from free trade agreements and trade with China to antidumping policy. Prior to joining AEI, he worked on international economics issues as a member of the secretary of state's Policy Planning Staff. Mr. Levy also served as an economist for trade on the President's Council of Economic Advisers and taught economics at Yale University. He writes for AEI's International Economic Outlook series.

Experience

- Member, Policy Planning Staff, U.S. Department of State, 2005-2006
- Senior Economist for Trade, 2003-2005; Junior Staff Economist for International Trade, 1991-92, President's Council of Economic Advisers
- Academic Director, Yale Center for the Study of Globalization, 2002-2003
- Associate Professor of Economics, 1999-2003; Assistant Professor of Economics, 1994-99, Economic Growth Center, Department of Economics, Yale University
- Consultant, U.S. Agency for International Development, Accra, Ghana, 1994
- Assistant, Economic Research and Analysis Unit, General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, Geneva, 1990

Education

Ph.D., economics, Stanford University

B.A., economics, University of Michigan